CLEAN GARDENING.

Is the Government is at all desirous of attempting to solve the bee-chamber problem it has surely received inspiration in some direction from the letters and articles that have appeared in the local press since we first brought the matter into prominence. The suggestion which appeared in this column on Thursday, and the letter which we published yesterday, gives practical ideas to the Government to base a scheme upon, and the one they should certainly consider is that of inaugurating an European experimental vegetable garden in the New Territory. Already a garden alleged to be run on clean principles exists near Castle Peak, but we have not the slightest assurance that the objectionable features of the average Chinese garden are entirely done away with. A clean-grown vegetable is the one thing that Europeans appeal for in this Colony, and it is the one thing they are never certain of getting. The filthy disease-breeding methods of Chinese is known to every resident who has been to those places where the gardens are situated, and one glance at the gardeners at work manuring the luscious lettuce, the crisp celery, and the appetizing cauliflower, is sufficient to cause an observer to forewarn uncooked—and even cooked —vegetables for all time afterwards.
There would arise in this Colony an enormous demand for vegetables cultivated under the supervision of Europeans once it was known that such could be obtained, and the opportunity presents itself now for the Government to establish such a farm and combine charity with utility, and earn the reputation, at the same time, for possessing the goodness to which cleanliness is credited with being next.
The product of such a farm would return sufficient profit to pay for all the food and lodgings that bee-chambers would require, and in addition would allow of a small wage being paid them which could be saved up until a sufficiently large sum had been accumulated to pay their passage to some other port. The cultivation of vegetables on such lines, would, we imagine, be better for the Colony as a whole than the confinement of poverty-stricken men in gaol and the employment of them in the elevating Christian-spiritpromoting work of oakum-picking.
Men who are willing to work to obviate starvation and the prison stigma would relish the opportunity to secure the healthy open-air employment, that gardening affords, and, as our correspondent said yesterday, once these men are provided for, it will be an easy matter to deal with any inveterate loafers and drunkards who might be left in the Colony.
